THIS TIME IT'S AUBURN

Another great fire disaster hit Maine yesterday, causing a loss of nearly $3,000,000 in New Auburn where nearly two square miles of houses and business establishments were reduced to ashes, by a fire which started in a garage.

The first report was that the conflagration started from a gasoline explosion, but this morning's broadcast voices the owners' suspicion that it was incendiary.

The number of buildings destroyed is variously given as 200 to 400, and it is said that 1400 are homeless. Firemen from a dozen cities and towns aided in fighting the six-hour fire.

On the receipt of the first news quite a delegation of Rockland citizens headed for the scene of the conflagration.

The Red Cross Appeal

From Dewitt Smith, manager of the eastern area of American Red Cross, comes this telegram to Chairman Welch of the Knox County Chapter:

"Maurice Reddy, director Ellsworth Fire Relief, arrived Auburn this afternoon while fire still raged. Telephoned report indicating four to five hundred families homeless with almost complete loss furniture, household goods, other possessions. Six additional disaster workers being sent. Chapter handling emergency relief. Joint appeal being issued by Chapters Maine and neighboring States for both Ellsworth and Auburn sufferers. Please make immediate and strong appeal for contributions and remit same to national headquarters daily."

KNOX COUNTY STARTS $300,000 DRIVE

Great Campaign To Restore Banking Facilities and Business Normalcy To This Section Swings Into Action

Four score enthusiastic workers took the field yesterday in the opening of a canvass of the 9000 depositors of the Rockland National Bank, the objective being the subscribing of $300,000 capital stock of the new First National Bank of Rockland. Kennedy Crane, general chairman of the big drive, has his forces carefully prepared and armed with names and depositors' addresses in this immediate territory. A depositor is considered a prospect, no other information being given out than the fact of his having money in the bank. It is to the advantage of every depositor to get the new bank started, for thereby half of his deposits become immediately available and more as conditions and successful liquidation justifies.

The teams will hold to their task until the goal is reached and every worker realizes that the sooner the job is done the sooner normal business conditions will be restored. The total reported as this paper went to press this morning was $50,300. The canvassers' report with but few exceptions, a pleasant reception and a desire to cooperate through the taking up of stock.

The Federal government has approved the plan for opening the First National Bank of Rockland and the wheels of actual opening will turn when this $300,000 is subscribed. Common stock to the amount of $125,000 must be sold with par at $100, selling price $120, the $20 to go to a paid-in surplus, required in the Federal plan. This stock will yield 3 percent on par, if earned, and is assessable. A like amount of preferred stock must be sold at the same price, paying 5 percent on par, fixed interest, callable at $120. This stock votes as well as the common. The stock holders will elect the directors of the new bank, and the directors will choose the officers. A person must hold ten shares of common stock to qualify as a director.

The Chamber of Commerce is serving as general headquarters for the campaign with Executive Secretary Miss Lenore Benner serving as secretary of the drive. Any question concerning the campaign will be answered if one calls Rockland 860. If any person wishes to subscribe directly the coupons may be clipped from page eight of this newspaper.

If Coming Disarmament Is To Succeed, Congressional Convention At Camden Is Told

The annual Congressional-Christian Conference of the State of Maine opened at Camden this morning with several matters pending which promise to make the convention one of exceptional interest. Not the least of these will be the debate on the beer question which was scheduled to begin at the moment this paper was going to press.

Last night there had already been a registration of 125, and it was believed that the total would not be far from 200 when the convention got down to actual business today. The sessions are being held in the First Congregational Church, the architectural beauty of which is attracting the attention of all the delegates. The pastor, Rev. Winfield Witham, and a fine group of working committees are leaving nothing undone which could contribute to the comfort of the delegates or the speedy transaction of the business affairs. The visitors are all hospitably housed.

Last night a large congregation heard Prof. Marion J. Bradshaw of Bangor Theological Seminary lead a seminar on the subject of "Disarmament and World Peace."

"This is the first time in the history of the world that the leaders of thought have taken the subject of world peace seriously and tried to solve the problem of war."

"The people of the world have been deceived" by diplomats and statesmen who have had a policy of selfish nationalism instead of a broad internationalism.

"Germany is justified in demanding an equality of armament contrary to the terms of the Versailles Treaty because the other nations of Europe have not fulfilled their promises under the terms of the treaty."

"The world cannot hope for much from the coming disarmament conference because it represents a narrow nationalism. There must be more education for world peace, and if the disarmament conference is to prove a success America must lead the way."

The conference opened at 10 o'clock this morning with President Arthur A. Head of Waterville in the chair. Rev. Morris H. Turk, D. D. led a discussion on "Church Union and Inter-denominational Cooperation." A seminar on "Rethinking Missions," this afternoon will be led by Secretary Alden H. Clark of the American Board.

Tonight Rev. Edwin D. Hardin of New York City will preach the sermon.

"In Memoriam" will be given by Rev. Willard H. Palmer. The Lord's Supper will be directed by Rev. Mr. Witham.

Wednesday's meeting will include business sessions and elections in the work of this church in Maine. The Maine Congregational Ministerial Relief Society will meet in the afternoon.

Wednesday evening there will be two dinners, one for the young people will be held in St. Thomas parish house with Mr. Clark as guest of honor and speaker. At the same hour another dinner will be served in Masonic hall on Main street by the ladies of the Monument Square Methodist Church for adult members of the conference. Dean Weigle of the Divinity School of Yale University will give a talk on "Our Heritage of Freedom."

Later Wednesday evening, Dean Weigle will give the closing address of the conference taking "The New Paganism and the Christian Gospel" for his subject.

IT WAS COMMANDERY KNIGHT

Dunlap's Degree Team Works Order Of Malta In Full Form and Grand Prelate Presides

Commandery Masons from all over Maine assembled at Claremont's asylum last night to see the degree team of Dunlap Commandery confer the order of the Knights of Malta on Edward O.B. Burgess of Thomaston. The Bath Commandery was represented by about 60 of its members, who subsequently listened to praise from all sides on the splendid manner in which their team had performed the work.

The Knights of Malta order is seldom worked in full form in this State, and the impressive ritual was performed for the first time in Rockland. The escort of Dunlap Commandery gave an exhibition drill which was roundly applauded and the singing by the quartet in the course of the ceremonies was greatly enjoyed.

The occasion was honored by the presence of several distinguished visitors, among them Rev. David L. Wilson of Bath, who is grand prelate of the Grand Encampment of the United States; and Past Grand Commanders, Frank P. Denaco of Bangor, and Edward K. Gould of Rockland.

Past commanders present included F. W. Farnham, Damascus Commandery, Brooklyn; Charles Johnson, St. John's; R. E. Atwood, DeMolay; R. B. Stratton, Strathglass; Eugene M. Hall, De Valois; George E. Sampson, De Molay; Warren Nichols, Allen L. Curtis, Roy E. Young, Marion Brown and Norman Donohue, Palestine; John L. Tewksbury, J. P. Burgess, Allen Pillsbury, William Rankin, Lester D. Ames, B. F. Burkett and Charles Weaver, Camden; Harry S. Grindell, St. Omer; W. L. Robertson, L. Gratz Jackson, M. H. Beerworth, William Furber, Thomas Houston, Oliver Moses, 3d, M. Kelley, Dunlap; B. H. Whitehouse, F. A. Stanley, J. A. Richan, Geo. T. Stewart, R. V. Stevenson, C. U. Brown, A. F. Wisner, W. T. Flint, W. D. Talbot, Arthur L. Orne, E. C. Payson, A. P. Blaisdell, George B. St. Clair, Claremont.

Edward Sampson, the present commander of Dunlap Commandery, was a justly proud member of the Bath delegation.

Grand Prelate Wilson presided for a short time over Claremont Commandery, it being the first occasion on which an officer of the Grand Encampment has ever done so. "Just to say that an officer of that body had once presided over your Commandery," he told the Sir Knights.

Eminent Sir Harry Smith of Skowhegan, grand warder of the Grand Commandery of Maine, served as acting grand warder of the Grand Encampment of the United States, introducing the grand prelate.

Thomas Huston as prior of Dunlap Commandery was at the head of the degree staff. The Council of that commandery comprises Edward Sampson, Commander; Morris Haynes, generalissimo; and Edwin Lowell, captain general.

In connection with last night's work it is a matter of note that De Valois Commandery, the smallest in the State, has worked the order in full form for 35 years.

Headed by Eminent Commander I. Lawton Bray, Claremont Commandery made an excellent host, and the chicken supper served by Golden Rod Chapter was one of the several happy features.

Central Maine Power Company Notes Six Weeks of Increased Output

Power output figures for the Central Maine Power Company system for last week were only 1 percent less than the corresponding week last year, making the sixth consecutive week of increased electrical output. This is the most encouraging sustained rise in 31 months. Most of the improvement is reflected in the industrial and commercial output.

In March, following the bank moratorium, power output was 25 percent under last year. By the first of April the decrease had dropped to 12 percent before a temporary lapse set in which dropped the figure back to 18 percent. Since then however the gain upward has been steady, reaching its highest point of the move last week.

Outside of two short periods, one in December, 1931, and again in February of this year, when moderate gains were made, neither of which could be called more than seasonal reflection, the present period is the first since December, 1930, to record what power officials term real improvement.

Do you want a bank open in Rockland? Read pages three and seven and see how it can be done. It is up to you. Knox County must meet this situation.—adv.

GOD'S GARDEN

The Lord God planted a garden. In the first white days of the world, And set there an angel guardian. And set there an angel guardian. In a garment of light enfolded.

So near to the peace of Heaven, The hawk might nest with the wren; For there, in the cool of the even, God walked with the first of men.

And I dream that these garden closes, With their shade and their sun-flecked sod, And their lilies and bowers of roses, Were laid by the hand of God.

The kiss of the sun for pardon, The song of the birds for mirth— One is nearer God's heart in a garden Than anywhere else on earth.

For I the Lord will hold thy right hand saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee.—Isa. 41:13.

BUYING THE BANK STOCK

The campaign is now on for subscriptions to the stock of the First National Bank of Rockland. Upon the success of this campaign rests the hope of our city for the release of money into the arteries of business and a future community prosperity in which every citizen will share. The active machinery of the canvass is in the hands of a group of citizens, who assume the task upon the common ground of community patriotism, in which the rest of us should honor ourselves by sharing, and with a promptness of co-operation hasten the moment when the doors of the bank shall open and the road to normal times present itself.

ON THE UP GRADE

The merchants of Main street will testify to the general accession of spirits which growingly manifested itself throughout the closing day of the past week. It was in the air. Men spoke with a regained feeling of confidence in the plans announced for community business restoration. We heard one merchant say that it was his greatest day for trade in a long stretch of weeks. Pass the word along. Too long has the community been looking upon the wrong side of the shield.

THE ACID TEST

It was that wholesome philosopher of ancient times, Epictetus, who gave utterance to his conviction that "Difficulties are things that show what men are." Since those far-off days the world has experienced frequent occasions which have illustrated the truth of the epigram. The nations, down to the smallest communities, are again in the midst of such an occasion, and men are being proved by the difficulties it presents. Thank God for the men who lend a hand for their solution.

OLD MOLASSES DAYS

Allusion in this column to Porto Rico as an integral portion of the United States naturally turns back the memories of older readers to those happy days of maritime activity, when the shipping of Knox County were a channel between these ports and that distant isle of the tropics. There will yet be living with us men now grown old who sailed on those adventurous voyages, bringing back with them the products of the island, varied in character, but featuring, as we recall, those indispensable articles, sugar and molasses. The sugar, in huge hogsheads, bore a brownish color; the molasses heavy in texture and of a delicious sweetness. Its vernacular designation was "Porter-reek." The Main street merchant drew it "from the wood" through a spigot stopped by a whittled-out plug, and you bore it home yourself in the family jug of generous earthenware proportions. It was a joyous product, not alone reserved for cookery, but a favorite auxiliary of the family table, applicable alike to the buck-wheat cakes or the thickly sliced bread, and equally a favorite with the aged and the youth. We do not get such molasses nowadays. Refined processes of sugar making have robbed the by-product of its former richness.

If we were to have set before us again one of those old-time family hot biscuits, divided in the center, generously spread upon with country butter and then submerged in porter-reek, we should find it difficult to imagine anything more suited to the fastidious taste.

HER ANNIVERSARY DAY

On Sunday our city churches with music and eloquence observed Mother's Day, that recurrent anniversary of the occasion when the Congress, in 1914, at the solicitation of Miss Anna Jarvis of West Virginia, gave official recognition, by a display of the national flag, to man's best friend. Everybody knows how nationwide the day has come to be observed. There was a time when it was marked by something of an excess of emotion—sob stuff, it was called—infused into the day, but this has been succeeded by a more rational spirit, which with dignity and affection pays tribute to "the hand that rules the world."

While in Washington the other day Judge Connolly of Portland desired to pay his respects to Representative Moran. "Sorry," the word came back, "he will be unable to see you. He is busy." It developed that the young Rockland statesman was presiding over a session of the House.

BANK DIFFICULTIES

A Logical Explanation of How Present Conditions Have Come About

By C. S. Roberts

"What are the bank's difficulties?" No satisfactory public explanation has been given to the foregoing question. Although the answer is obvious to everyone familiar with business statements and balance sheets, yet the average depositor is still in the dark. Mr. Isaacson's explanation at the Park Theatre was not complete. He said that it was due to economic causes. This explanation does not satisfy. The depositor would like to know why his bank was so seriously defective that at the start it is only going to be open 50 per cent liquid.

When the correct explanation is given certain things will be clear to the depositor. Many are now suspicious because they do not understand. The truth is, that no management, however shrewd and uncanny its judgment might have been, could have saved the situation. The bank would now be unable to liquidate just the same. Neither did it matter who owned the capital stock of the banks. The bank would nevertheless have to compromise. It is a fact that no person, certainly none now living, could be held responsible for the present condition of our banks. The prosperity of our community in the last twenty years turned our strong banks into weak ones. This seems an anomaly, but it is true, as a little study of their past history will clearly demonstrate.

Thus, the Rockland National Bank was started before the Civil War; yet as late as 1910 its total resources—that is, deposits, capital and surplus—were only $704,000. In other words, in the first fifty years of growth it had only reached this modest figure; yet in the next twenty years, from 1910 to 1929, its total resources had increased to $3,726,000—these being the figures December 31, 1929, before the North Bank was taken over, and just about the time Financial Institutions purchased the control of the bank. But the point is, that the capital and surplus was then the same as in 1910—$150,000 capital and $100,000 surplus.

Now in 1930, with total resources of $704,000—of which $150,000 was capital stock, $100,000 surplus—the guarantee fund for depositor, counting stock liability, was $400,000; that is, the Rockland National Bank was in such condition in 1930 that it could have lost outright over 50 per cent of all its resources and no depositor would have been harmed; but in later years the bank had total resources of over $6,000,000 (after acquiring the North), yet its guarantee fund remained substantially the same. That is, expressed in percentage, the bank in 1930 could have stood a shrinkage in values of 57 per cent before a depositor lost, while in 1930 it could only stand a loss of less than 7 per cent before the depositor would be a loser.

The general public should thoroughly understand this. A new bank there must be. It must be a strong bank. The capital structure must be in proportion to its deposits, and as deposits increase its capital must increase in proportion. Even in the depression of 1921 when Liberty Bonds were selling for 85 per cent, if the Rockland National Bank had owned them exclusively, the shortage in liquidation would have taken all the capital and surplus of the bank and left a very substantial deficit to be borne by depositors. We must have a bank sound under all conditions and that is what is now being proposed, and we should not be satisfied with anything less.

Crockett accompanied them home for a few days, taking in the Pomona Saturday night at St. George.

Owen Grant and bride arrived home Monday and are occupying Mrs. Lucia Norton Valentine's cottage at Pulpit Harbor.

North Haven Grange held a very interesting session Saturday. It being Mother's Night, at the close of the meeting orangeade and fancy cookies were served. Next Saturday another good program will be presented.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Emerson and brother Lloyd Crockett visited their sister Miss Beulah M. Crockett who is a student at Farmington Normal School. Miss Crockett was this term elected proctor.

ELLSWORTH EDITOR

Praises Joe Morrison and Says a Great Word For the American Red Cross

Pubs. The Courier-Gazette:—I received a copy of your paper containing your story of Ellsworth's fire. Sorry I could not extend more courtesy to your representatives when they called and give them more time, but you may understand that I was a trifle busy! You got me mixed with Brother Emery of the Eastport Sentinel, but that is immaterial.

I could have given you proofs of some stuff I already had written, and also could have told you that my building was saved by one of the boys of my force, whom I have raised from a printer's devil—Joe Morrison. Joe came to me on the street when the fire first looked threatening, and suggested this volunteer service himself. With a garden hose attached to our office faucet, he put in four hours, playing on the wooden cornice of our brick building, when for a time his position was so hot he had to pull down the window to shield his face. He stuck to it until all danger was past.

And then came tragedy! Wednesday afternoon our news press broke down absolutely, and we had to print in Bar Harbor! I am sending you copy of our paper. Ellsworth appreciates what Knox and all other counties of Maine are doing for us. I hope Rockland will never learn from experience, but take it from me, you will never know what the Red Cross means until you are the object of its service.

We are comparatively near neighbors now. Come over again. Very truly yours,

W. H. Titus
Editor American.

Three cities are talking musters and will be interviewed by the muster committee. A rising vote of thanks was given the Baxter boys for the fine banquet and the use of their hall for the meeting. The next meeting will be held in Lubec with the Torment Engine Co. boys. Charles M. Lawry and Joseph Peters attended the meeting from Rockland. The assembly stood in a moment of silent prayer in memory of Capt. George W. Platt, late of Portland, and a former delegate of the League, time-keeper William Hennessey.

The Drouth Which Mrs. Waltz Read About Becomes a Reality

Mrs. Charlotte Waltz of Donohue place read the other day where somebody predicted a dry summer. Preparedness, thought Mrs. Waltz is the proper thing under the circumstances, and she proceeded to get ready for a severe and prolonged drouth.

When Deputy Sheriff Ludwick and Lieut. Cushman called upon her Sunday they found her possessed of 75 gallons of home brew in bulk, 22 mottle bottles filled and the surplus placed in three bottles which had been designed as receptacles for ginger ale.

Subjected to analysis by Chemist Burpee yesterday the hooch was found to analyze from 3 to 5 percent, the latter being a decidedly naughty ratio of alcoholic content.

Mrs. Waltz, in Recorder Miles' court yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell. She was sentenced to two months in jail and placed on probation for one year. She was also fined $100, with no strings attached.

Using somebody else's automobile for target practice with a 22-calibre revolver isn't all that it's cracked up to be, James Harmon of Warren found in Municipal Court yesterday. The automobile in question belonged to Edwin Blanchard of Warren, and with 18 bullet holes or dents in it would easily have passed muster as an exhibit from the Western Front. Nobody knows why Harmon shot up this poor little innocent car; in fact he says he didn't, but Recorder Miles had different convictions, so he sentenced the respondent to two months in jail, the sentence being suspended. The damage to the car was estimated at $35.

Howard R. Rich Defendant In Federal Court Cases— Charles T. Smalley Is Counsel

A Rockland attorney, Charles T. Smalley, figures prominently in the cases of the Delta Finance Company, The Oberaldo Finance Corporation and Alfred A. Stein, Receiver of Bayway Terminal vs. Howard R. Rich, which were heard before Judge Peters in Federal Court at Portland last week. The amount at issue is $220,000. The plaintiff companies above mentioned, seek an accounting of alleged "secret commissions" from Howard R. Rich, of Atlantic, Me., and commorant of various large cities.

The plaintiff concern alleged that Rich was hired in July 1926 as an investigator of concerns seeking to borrow large sums of money. It is the Oberaldo's contention that while so employed Rich received a secret commission of $120,000 from the Bayway Terminal Company of Elizabeth, N. J. operators of huge storage warehouses for negotiating a loan of $1,200,000 from the Oberaldo and Delta Finance Companies.

It is further claimed that he received $100,247.67 in Liberty Bonds from the same concern on another loan he arranged.

It is Rich's contention that he was elected secretary and director of the Oberaldo Company and not a financial agent and that the first sum was a legitimate commission as an agent of Bayway, which he claims, the Oberaldo knew him to be. The Liberty Bonds, he alleges were received for services to another concern, the Pennsylvania Dock and Warehouse Company.

At the conclusion of the trial Thursday afternoon, depositions were filed and July first fixed as the time for filing briefs. It is expected a decision may be made soon after that date.

The three plaintiff corporations were represented by Reber, Granger & Montgomery of Philadelphia and Verrill, Hale, Booth & Ives of Portland; the suits were defended by Montgomery & McCracken of Philadelphia and Charles T. Smalley of Rockland.

Mr. Rich, formerly of Reading, Pa., established a summer home at Swan's Island several years ago and although he spends the winter in Philadelphia, he has been a legal resident of Maine for some time. He has been active in the community and social work of the Island town and established the medical dispensary at Atlantic; which was probably the first of its kind on the New England Coast. Mr. Rich is also well known in Rockland where he has transacted much business with the banks and wholesale houses.

Golden Rod Chapter met Friday night, with a large number participating of the substantial support provided under the chairmanship of Mrs. Laura Maxcy. Degrees were conferred upon Miss Virginia Post and Edward McBrine. There were visitors from Seaside Chapter of Camden, Grace of Thomaston, Forget-me-not of South Thomaston and Harbor Light of Rockport. Announcement was made of annual session of the Grand Chapter of Maine, to be held in Portland May 23-24, and Mrs. Helen Chapman, worthy matron, Mrs. Maude Blodgett, associate matron and Mrs. Susie Campbell, secretary, were named as delegates. An entertainment was presented at the close of business, featuring Samuel Quaganti and his Guitars Ensemble, composed of Louise Fields, Arlene and Genevieve Gray, Olive Jameson, Earl Bickmore, Harold Gross, Kenneth Sevon, and Miss Edna Gregory as pianist. Their numbers were beautiful Hawaii composed by Mr. Quaganti; Home, Can I Forget Thee, Old Black Joe, Bicycle Built for Two, Blue Danube Waltz and Good-night, Ladies. Mr. Quaganti presented two violin solos—Hungarian Dance No. 5 by Brahms and Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life by Victor Herbert; Miss Gregory also acted as his accompanist. Mrs. Blanche Mor-ton gave as readings, "The Beau of Bath" by Constance McKay and "In the Dark" by Irving. Rev. H. R. Winchenbaugh gave a talk entitled "The Romance of Ruth" which abounded in dramatic touches, wit and wisdom. Mrs. Vivian Hewitt will be the supper chairman for the meeting May 26.

[From Boston Transcript]
A federal economy measure that would save $1500 yearly in salary cost, in addition to a lesser sum in supplies, at the expense of seafarers, is being vigorously opposed by some of Maine's representatives in Congress.

It has to do with the abandonment of the lighthouse on Southern Island, off Tenants Harbor, a few miles this side of Rockland. Recently, from headquarters of the First Lighthouse District in Portland, word issued that the lighthouse is to be given up some time this spring. Immediately the fireworks started.

Tenants Harbor light came into being seventy-six years ago, and has been in continuous operation since 1857. In the days when great fleets of coasters, carrying lumber, stone and lime, swept up and down the seaboard, every light along that section of the Atlantic shore line was necessary, and that on Southern Island was important, for with the lights on Franklin Island, Pemaquid Point, Monhegan, Marshall Point at Port Clyde, White Head, Two Bush Island and Owl's Head, it guided mariners on the winding courses among the George's Islands, through Mussel Ridge Channel, and in and out of Rockland harbor. Moreover, its fog bell has been a welcome warning to many an anxious pilot whose craft has been caught in one of those quick-rising mists that originate in the "fog factory" around Monhegan Island. While the number of craft that

George E. Littlefield, local manager for Pan-Am was one of the first to visit Ellsworth after the fire, going there primarily in the interests of the Mexican Petroleum Corporation. The company's main plant is to the northward of the fire zone, but the storehouses on Franklin and Water streets were consumed at a loss of about $7000, covered, presumably, by the corporation's blanket insurance. Mr. Littlefield immediately proceeded to order new stock and lease a building on High street for temporary use. The Ellsworth fire loss, as he hears it, was between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

APPLETON

Cowboys and Crooks

The Dramatic Club presented the four-act western drama "An Arizona Cowboy," at Hope Corner May 9 to a large and well pleased audience. The cast included 12 acting members and three extra cowboys. Farley Gantt, a cowboy sheriff, was played by Floyd Gushue, who took his part like a real officer of the law; Paul Quillian, his partner, by Donald Hall, who pictured the attitude of a young boy caught in the toils of a professional crook and gambler, and his more unscrupulous sister; Duke Blackshear, a stranger from Frisco, Edward Ames acting the villain in real style; Coralie Blackshear, Duke's sister, Alice Moody, who portrayed the life of a scheming woman; Hezekiah Bugg, a glorious liar, John Gushue, whom anyone would have to see act to realize his ability along that line; Yow Kee, a heathen Chinese, Stanley Eaton, who was almost a professional in makeup and performance.

Big Elk, a Navajo chief, Maurice Butler, and Muriel Robbins as Pawn Afraid, an Indian maid, were both very realistic in their parts; Grizzly Grimm, a cattle thief, Nelson Moody, his makeup so perfect that even his own friends hardly knew him; Marguerite Moore, played by Lucy Moody, who made a charming ranch owner; Mrs. Petunia Bugg from Old Indian, Evelyn Pitman, a bossy old woman when she was near Hezekiah; Ruth Moody, a mischievous girl from the poorhouse never minding her own business, were well taken. One of the features of the play was Jupiter, Young'un's little speckled hen, the part taken by a 12-year old bantam hen. Each one was so well adapted to their part, that no special mention needs to be made.

Features between the acts were furnished by Chrystal Stanley and Edward Ames, singing "Home On the Range." Samuel Quaganti of the Art School of Music of Rockland gave two selections on the violin accompanied by Bert Thurston of South Liberty. He also played several selections on the Hawaiian guitar, which received applause.

The drama was also presented at Riverside hall, Appleton, April 22, and at the Grange hall, Burketville, May 2.

MEGUNTICOOK LAKE DROWNINGS

Ralph Brown Of Camden and William Perry Of Rockland Lose Lives When Canoe Capsizes

Megunticook Lake claimed two more victims Saturday through the capsizing of a canoe containing Ralph Brown of Camden and William Perry of Rockland. Brown's body was recovered about 3 o'clock while Perry's was not taken from the water until four hours later, having been located by Major Ralph W. Brown a State fish and game warden.

Because the bodies were brought ashore just across the line in Lincolnville they were beyond the jurisdiction of Medical Examiner Frohock, and it was necessary to send for Medical Examiner Vickery of Belfast. This necessitated a long delay and the body of Brown lay exposed to the view of the hysterical wife and mother.

Ten boats aided in the search for the bodies. The Camden fire department had its gear on the scene soon after being notified, and State Patrolmen Pray and Shaw were steadily on duty.

The first intimation of the tragedy came to Brown's mother, Mrs. Harry Brown, who had gone to call the two men to dinner. When she sighted the canoe she heard a voice which she recognized as her son's say: "Help mother!" Mrs. Brown shouted back that she could not swim, but she ran for a rope with a view to fastening one end to a tree, and holding on to the other end while she waded out. When these arrangements had been completed the two men had disappeared and there was no further outcry.

Brown is survived by his mother, his wife and three children, two sisters and a brother. He was a native of Hope and about 30. Perry, who formerly made his home at Deer Isle, leaves a wife and daughter. Both men were employed in connection with the Gribbell estate which borders on the lake.

Funeral services will be held for both victims at Good's funeral home in Camden this afternoon, Rev. Leroy A. Campbell officiating. Mr. Brown's body will be placed in the cemetery at Hope Corner, while Mr. Perry's body will lie in Mountain View cemetery, Camden.

"Where's Grandma?"

The play "Where's Grandma?" given at Town hall by the high school Friday evening for the benefit of the senior class, netted $50 from the sale of tickets, candy between the acts, and the dance following at Glover hall. The play was a highly entertaining one and was expertly coached by both teachers in the high school, Principal Dwinall and Mrs. Florence Gardiner. Thanks are given to Kathryn Starrett and Dana Smith, Jr., who took the parts of Dahlia, a "hy-yeller," and Midnight, houseman, respectively. Choice bits of good comedy were added, bringing the house down many times, and their makeup so clever it was hard to recognize them. Miss Marguerite Haskell took the lead in her usual excellent manner, with Osmo Hirvela opposite her, acting his part very capably, especially considering that his experience in amateur theatricals has been limited. Arnold Robinson made a handsome brother for Miss Marguerite Haskell and was very good in his part. Miss Helen Boyd as a cool remote blonde, and superior, proved her worth in her character, as did Miss Beatrice KENNEDY.

Grammar School Notes

May 5 ended the seventh month. The following pupils were neither absent nor tardy during that time: Enoc Laaksonen, Edwin Tyler, Kenneth Pierce, Wendell Dennison, Virginia Till, Alice Baum, Beverlie Jackson, Parker Jackson, Harry Smith, Evelyn Ulmer, Harvey G. Crowley, Jr. In scholarship highest marks: Enoc Laaksonen and Alberta Graves, 11 1/2; Sylvia Tyler and Alice Baum, 10; Beverlie Jackson, 9; Kenneth Pierce, Harry Smith, Arline Knowlton and Edwin Tyler, 8; Virginia Till and Evelyn Ulmer, 7; Parker Jackson and H. Gordon Crowley, 6; Barbara Harlow and Warren Ulmer, 5; Charles Watts and Vina Harlow, 4.

The school is much pleased with the gift of a fine new flag from Albert Davis, and they feel very grateful to Meridian Harrington and Mike Sutella for placing the halyards Saturday.

Floyd Rackliff has done some very remarkable handwork, besides his school work, in painting signs for the town which would compare favorably with those of a professional sign painter. One large sign displays 78 letters. This work has been done gratis and has saved the town a large sum of money. Floyd also displayed very marked mechanical ability when the victrola broke, by making a new part for it, a job which had cost from 75 cents to $1.50 when done at a machine shop. Almost any work of like kind he can master with apparently little effort.

May Day brought forth the following poetical tributes to the teacher from two fifth-grade boys:

These are wonderful days in the garden,
The daffodils are all in bloom,
Waiting to be picked in the daytime
And sleeping and nodding by glow of the moon.

Edwin Tyler, aged 10

The barn was low and dim and old,
In broad bars of gold upon the floor
The sunshine slept,
And through the windows and the doors
Swift, in and out the swallows swept.

Kenneth Pierce

Great pride is felt by the teacher and pupils of this school in the splendid record of some of its students who entered R.H.S. last year. William Anderson and Ralph Tyler have had their names upon the honor roll every quarter, always for not less than 4 A's; Marion Watts, another former pupil, has also achieved honor rank, and in the Maine Scholarship test Ralph Tyler took highest rank, and Marion Watts second in freshman Latin. At the end of the last quarter 25 percent of all the pupils from this village had their names upon the honor roll. Surely much credit is due to this group.

NORTH AND SOUTH

In Which a Clever Rockland Girl Expresses Her Preference

In the April issue of the Gate Post, literary monthly of the State Teachers College of Framingham, Mass., appears a poem by a member of the student body, Virginia Healey '36, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Healey of this city. Miss Healey's clever verses are headed:

WHY I LIKE THE NORTH BETTER THAN THE SOUTH

Northern summers do not roast one. As for winter we can boast one Which yields zealous sports the South can never know.

Same old temperature's the reason: They've no special change of season. And can you fancy never seeing snow?

No cheerful springtime robin. No sweet-corn-on-the-cob in The South, where hot sun parches garden wares.

Who would trade our white potatoes, Pumpkins, "cukes," and red tomatoes, Our firm apples for their avocado pears?

They say the schools are finer Here than down in Carolina. Where "white folks" think that "negro" spells disgrace; In the North, our colored brother Is as loved as any other. And we grant to him his just and rightful place.

Tempt me not with Spanish mosses, Georgia peaches, Tucky horses, And set aside the grapefruit and the Take the nightingale away. Give me Massachusetts Bay, For North is home, and that is why it fits!

Virginia Healey '36.

Moody Cabins at Waldoboro

Wherever you travel in this section of Maine your attention is pretty apt to be called to the Moody Cabins which have come to be one of Waldoboro's best known institutions.

High on the hill, just as you enter Waldoboro from the east they stand conspicuously outlined, and so attractive that they are calculated to arrest the attention of any tourist.

A great many visitors make their headquarters at Moody's Cabins and tour the coast and inland cities and towns. Some spend their entire vacation there, fishing in the numerous ponds and lakes in the vicinity. Good salmon fishing can be had up until July 1st, when the bass fishing for game fish, takes the stand. Perch and pickerel are plentiful during July and August. During the fall season, bird hunting can't be beaten in this section. Partridge and woodcock are very plentiful.

Two experienced guides are available for fall hunting.

For those who golf, Wawenock Country Club golf course is only 15 miles away. This course is very trappy and interesting. A nice safe beach for bathing is within 15 minutes drive from camp.

High swings will please the kiddies, and perhaps the elders. Hammocks, lawn swings and lawn seats make the balsam grove comfortable.

There is a dining room on the grounds.

enemies among journalists and critics by his rudeness. He let himself be photographed fairly often, and amateur photographs and snapshots amused him greatly.

Among many interesting anecdotes of Brahms are told these:

When Bruch, sweating, had played him the whole of his "Odysseus," all that Brahms said at the end was: "Tell me, where do you get such beautiful manuscript paper?"

Seeing some compositions by Reinecke on a friend's piano, he said to the composer's wife, who was standing by: "What does your husband compose, too?"

Brahms as a young man was secretly in love with Clara Schumann, and was devoted to her till her death. Though he had a youthful passion for Agathe von Siebold, he let it cool, for his future was not assured. A girl at Oldenburg pleased him when he was in his 30s. He told a friend years later he had waited too long. He made an unsuccessful attempt to marry Clara Schumann's daughter, Julie. When a young woman asked him why he had not married, he answered: "None of them would have me, and if there had been one who would, I could not have stood her on account of her bad taste."

When he was 15 he had finished his musical studies with his father, and could play the violin, the cello and horn well enough to act as a stop-gap when necessary. His father made him play his first attempt at a composition to friends, but the father found composition of secondary importance; there was no money to be earned by it. "My finest songs would come to me early in the morning when I was cleaning the boots," he told Widman, when saying he was always composing. "All day long I was arranging marches for brass bands, and at night I would be seated at the piano in taverns." The father obliged him to help him earn money. He would play second violin in private orchestras and at dances. Yet the father was quick to realize that Johannes had more than ordinary talent, and impelled by the pressure of other musicians, he did what he could to develop the boy musically. So he entrusted the seven-year-old lad to a pianist, Cossel, who was bound to make him a pianist. "It's a pity," he once said, "he might be such a good pianist, if he would leave this everlasting composition alone." The boy studied Czerny, Clementi, Cramer, Hummel, and now and then a piece by J. S. Bach. Cossel wisely protected him from being exploited as a child prodigy. When he was ten he played at a subscription concert where an agent heard him and wanted the boy with his father to make a concert tour in America. The parents were tempted, but Cossel put his foot down, for which Johannes was grateful all his life.

So in closing, we drink a toast to Herr Johannes Brahms — a truly outstanding man, and growing greater every minute, on your hundredth birthday!

THE BEER SCREEN

Rev. F. W. Barton Sees It In Talk About Keeping the Tourists Away

Tenant's Harbor, May 11.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Recently you offered the columns of your paper for a discussion of the temperance issue. This was very kind of you as column inches mean dollars and cents to any publisher. I think there have been two communications, or articles printed since your offer. That there is a desire on the part of the reading and thinking public for information that may enable them to face the issue squarely and intelligently, we cannot doubt.

I feel there is more need for facts than for personal opinions. For instance, at the recent meeting of the board of strategy in Augusta the Press came out that "55 delegates were registered. On the vote to invoke the referendum the vote was 13 to 14 in its favor." Then the article concluded, because the other 22 did not vote, that they were against it.

Such was not the case. They did not vote because they had to leave before a vote was taken. (I was there).

What do the brewers think of the initiative and referendum, and female suffrage? One of their leaders addressing the brewers in their executive session said: "If you are living in liberal States which have not the initiative and referendum and have not female suffrage, I want to implore you to defeat those two things at all hazards."

We have both in Maine, and the liquor interests are trying to do their utmost to influence dry voters that the referendum on the Weatherbee transportation bill is detrimental to temperance. The liquor interests lost in 1911 when the women had no vote. What chance will they have now, that the women have the vote? None, if they get the truth. The offer of your columns for a sane discussion of the situation should be a challenge to every store-keeper and business man to make public his reasons for or against the Weatherbee bill and the retention of the 18th Amendment.

In conclusion, I wish to state that I for one resent the insinuation in the argument of the advocates for alcoholic beverages when they say, "If we do not get beer this summer we have killed our summer tourist trade." Our tourist trade has not been built up on beer. Maine's natural scenic beauty and invigorating climate during the vacation months calls the tourists. A proprietor of summer hotels at Belgrade Lakes said recently: "I received a letter from former patrons asking me if we were to have beer in Maine this summer, if you are you may cancel our reservations. We get enough of beer drinking out here. We come to Maine to get rid of it."

My four years' residence in Tenant's Harbor, and my acquaintance with summer residents, forces me to conclude that the advocates for beer are but setting up our tourists as a screen behind which they are waging their battle for easy transportation, and sale of hard liquors. The 18th Amendment did not corrupt politics. By this law is the knowledge of their corruption disclosed.

F. W. Barton.

STRAND THEATRE

"Song of the Eagle," will be the attraction Thursday. The breath-taking march of events during the most vital period in world history, from the opening of the World War up to the present, and then on into the future, is thrillingly chronicled in the picture. The film centers around a respectable middle-class brewing family. When war breaks out, they send two sons into the conflict. Only one returns. He and his father find their business ruined by the enactment of Prohibition, but they struggle through the years that follow, maintaining their dignity and self-respect in spite of sorrow and loss of fortune. They welcome the return of beer as a return to the happiness they once had, only to find themselves confronted by a problem that all America may face in the next few months.—adv.

RURAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Sunday School at Hope Corner which meets at 12 had a recent attendance of 41 which shows a growing interest. Miss Katherine True was appointed secretary and Mrs. Harwood, treasurer.

Sunday School at North Warren opened with 18 present, together with all teachers and officers. Much interest is being shown locally.

AND RESTORE THE BUSINESS LIFE OF ROCKLAND AND THE WHOLE COASTAL SECTION

In the interest of expediting the subscribing of Stock in the New First National Bank of Rockland, the following letter is sent out under sponsorship of The Rockland National Bank. Read it carefully—consider all points—go to the bank and ask any questions you wish, but FILL IN THE SUBSCRIPTION BLANKS GIVEN BELOW AND MAIL OR TAKE THEM TO THE BANK AT ONCE.

The world business depression accompanied by a most unusual depreciation in security values brought about the bank holiday which resulted in the closing of all banks.

In order for a bank to resume business in full it must become 100% sound, which first requires a special examination by Federal Bank Examiners. This has been done in the case of the Rockland National Bank. The Treasury Department at Washington, D. C., recommends and has approved the following plan for resuming normal banking functions:

1. To form a new bank to be known as the First National Bank of Rockland.
2. To subscribe to a new capital structure as follows:

$125,000 Common Stock
125,000 Preferred Stock
50,000 Surplus

3. To allow the new bank to take over immediately 50% of the assets of the Rockland National Bank and thus to release 50% of the deposits of the Rockland National Bank.
4. To give three years in which to liquidate the remaining assets, from which further payments will be made to the depositors.

By this plan, we believe that an orderly collection of notes and selling of bonds can be effected and the best interests of the depositors served. It is clear to all that this will also work to the best advantage of the communities served by the bank.

The special Federal examination eliminated what are called slow and doubtful assets, leaving for the new bank those assets which are considered absolutely sound.

The Government now feels that the bank can go ahead with the co-operation of the depositors.

The bank cannot be opened and the 50% of the deposits released until the $300,000 mentioned above is raised. To raise this the help of all the depositors and friends of the bank will be needed; and in this way they will help themselves. If 1250 of our depositors and friends will each subscribe for one share of common stock and one share of preferred stock—costing in all, $240—the stock will be easily subscribed and the re-opening of the bank will take place as soon as possible thereafter. This is a worth while investment.

The quicker the new capital is subscribed the sooner the 50% deposits will be released, and the bank be ready to carry on the business needs of the communities.

Owing to the complete tie-up of funds in local commercial banks, your acceptance of the plan and willingness to subscribe for stock are vital and necessary.

When these plans are completed, the bank will have no connection with any outside interests.

The preferred stock is non-assessable and bears a fixed dividend rate of 5% on its par value, to yield 4.16% on your investment of $120. The dividend on the common stock, after payment of 5% on the preferred, is limited to 3%, if earned, until the preferred stock is retired. The preferred stock is callable at $120 and has equal voting power with the common stock. If, however, two consecutive semi-annual dividends on the preferred stock are passed, then the preferred stock shall have two votes for every one of common stock.

Subscriptions may be made from the 50% deposit to be released from the Rockland National Bank or from any other available funds of the purchaser.
